Telling This Truth is an episodic play, a series of narratives about the soulful journeys of our lives, linked together by the theme of triumph...
yet beautifully divergent in voice and experience.

What is it YOU want to Tell?
Seeking the Voices of...

Survivors of Domestic Violence
People Living in Recovery
LGBTQ+ People
People who have Experienced Poverty
Immigrants
Activists
People Living with Mental Illness
Young Adults
Sexual Assault/Abuse Survivors
Parents

... and other diverse stories of resilience

About HopeWorks

The mission of HopeWorks is to support and advocate for people in Howard County affected by sexual and intimate partner violence and engage the community in creating the change required for violence prevention. We use the arts in three important ways to accomplish our mission: to support survivors in their healing; as a vehicle to increase awareness; and to imagine creative solutions to bring about social change. The HopeWorks' community is invested and engaged in altering the systems and imbalances of power that maintain the status quo - including racism, poverty, and gendered violence. We invite you to audition for HopeWorks' social justice theatre production, "Telling This Truth."

Theatrical Event

Register to Audition: wearehopeworks.org/events

Seeking individuals who are interested in performing the stories of their healing journey— complicated, humorous, traumatic, or poignant — every voice of triumph is needed.

ALL are welcome: every laugh, every complication, every struggle, every smile and tear. People of ALL genders and ALL backgrounds are welcome to audition. Please write and audition with your story that is 3 to 5 minutes in length. Theatre experience is not mandatory. If you are chosen to be part of the cast you must be available to attend a series of rehearsals that will begin April 19, 2018.

The performance will be held at the Slayton House Theatre in Columbia MD on Thursday, June 21, 2018, 7 to 9 pm.
